When Paul performed at Apple in front of several hundred of the world's smartest and sharpest software engineers and technologists, he kept them all enthralled and intrigued. His focus was on challenging minds and hearts, and this he succeeded in doing before a tough professional audience.

ASTONISH YOUR AUDIENCES

*Interactive, family friendly, and educational,
Paul Draper's Mysteries of the Mind one-man-show is now available for your venue.*

Mysteries of the Mind weaves mind reading, mystery, music and storytelling into an interactive theatrical journey where audience members become the stars of the show.

Paul Draper reaches into minds and tells you your thoughts. He teaches audiences how to tell when someone is lying and how to read subtle body language—just like Sherlock Holmes solving a crime.

Putting his own money on the line, Draper controls the thoughts and actions of audience members and predicts their actions before they make them—and then shows why it works!

As an anthropologist, he has traveled the world. Interwoven into the show are entertaining stories about ancient men and women of mystery who could create stunning feats of the mind that are then recreated before your eyes.

Draper will make rain, bend metal with his mind, and turn liquid to solid in an instant. Onlookers will be baffled and amazed when Paul Draper, completely blindfolded in layers of steel, leather and duct tape, walks among the audience while describing personal objects and intimate details about the people they belong to.

Draper shares secrets to having a super memory. When given a list of unusual words shouted out by the audience, he will effortlessly name them back in any order.

Paul Draper is a master performer. Mysteries of the Mind is a theatrical experience that leaves audiences thoroughly entertained, feeling smarter, happier and filled with new enthusiasm.

Show length is customizable: 25 to 90 minutes

Paul Draper wowed the crowd.

Yale Daily News

My department regularly works with the entire gamut of talented performers. What sets Paul apart is his giftedness and craftsmanship in multiple areas of art... We were incredibly fortunate to find such an accomplished person who can educate, entertain, and mesmerize an audience and help us put on a show that our fans will remember for the rest of their lives.
